Board Security Audit - Project Chimera

This confidential review summarizes governance, access-control and evidence-retention observations identified during the quarterly internal security assessment.

The review covers restricted repository access, administrative privilege management, evidence-handling controls, removable-media governance and incident-readiness procedures.

Key Observations

1. Access to restricted evidence repositories should remain limited to approved personnel.
2. Administrative access should be reviewed quarterly and documented by system owners.
3. Removable-media activity should be monitored and retained for forensic review.
4. Evidence integrity should be validated through hashing and documented chain-of-custody controls.
